

JUDGE COCHRAN TELLS THE FACTS

About Movement To Get Federal Court At Lexington—Not Plan to Eliminate Richmond

A meeting of a number of citizens will be held this afternoon to consider what action, Richmond, should take in regard to the establishment of a federal court at Lexington. Mr. Warfield Bennett, U. S. Commissioner of court here, has received a letter from Judge A. M. J. Cochran, detailing the steps with regard to his recommendations regarding Lexington. Many local citizens feel that the move to secure a court at Lexington would mean eventually the discontinuance of a large part of the business done here to Lexington. It is also pointed out that with courts here and at Frankfort there is no need for court being established at Lexington, unless the government is hunting for a place to spend a few hundred thousand dollars, for which there can be no possible adequate return to anyone. Judge Cochran's letter gives the facts as before him, in the following letter:

Mayville, Ky.,
5th July, 1919.

W. C. Bennett, Esq.,
Dear Sir:

I have received a telegram from yourself and others protesting against the removal of the Federal Court from Richmond. There is no movement on foot to effect such removal. What is pending is this. Senator Stanley at the beginning of the present session of Congress introduced a bill in the Senate to establish Lexington as a place of holding court in addition to the six already existing. At the same time Congressman Cantrell introduced a bill in the House establishing Winchester as an additional place.

Last week I obtained a wire from the Attorney General requesting my views on the Senate Bill. He made no request as to the House Bill. But the request as to the Senate Bill, necessarily brought up Lexington and Winchester could not have a court. It was questionable whether either should have. Before expressing myself I desired to bring representatives of Lexington and Winchester together to see if it was not possible to harmonize them by one or the other giving way. I fixed last Thursday for them to come here and notified Mr. Wiggins of the Richmond bar, of the meeting and had Mr. Menzies through Lucien Burnam, to call attention to it so that any representative of Richmond might be present and be heard on the question of whether there should be a court at either place.

The meeting was held. The matter of which place should be selected was left to me and I decided in favor of Lexington for the reasons which I then expressed. I also concluded to write the Attorney General favoring the Senate Bill.

The only possible way in which the establishment of a court at Lexington can effect the civil business at Richmond is in case where both sides would prefer to have a case at Lexington rather than Richmond. It is so affected now by both sides preferring Covington or Frankfort. And all other places will be affected in like manner. In no other manner can the civil business at Richmond be affected by the establishment of a court at Lexington.

There is a real demand for a place of holding court in the body of the district, which is readily accessible to all parts thereof. I have met that demand occasionally in the past in going to Lexington and Winchester to hear cases and questions in cases. It is possible also that the criminal business at Richmond will be somewhat affected also, but the exact extent to which it will be I can not say. As at present advised I am not inclined to favor taking to Lexington any criminal business which would otherwise go to Richmond.

I have written you thus fully so that you may advise your citizens as to just what is in contemplation and the probable effect of the establishment of a court at Lexington. I desired some representative of your city at the meeting held on Thursday. As soon as it was determined on I promptly gave notice of it as stated. Sincerely yours,
A. M. J. Cochran.

AGREED TO TRY THE KAISER AT LONDON

(By Associated Press)
Paris, July 8.—The agreement reached by the allied council that the trial of the former Kaiser be held in London was a tacit one, but from American sources it is learned today the agreement is regarded as binding. What purports to be an authentic account of the incident in the council upon which the trial at London was decided, became available from a usually reliable source. At the meeting last week, the British premier said "I suppose you have no objection to the trial of the Kaiser at London." No one objected, Clemenceau even giving his verbal approval. It is assumed that Lloyd George later had unofficial conversations with the council members.

SWOPE AND HARDIN MEET AT COLUMBIA

Columbia, Ky., July 7.—King Swope, of Boyle county, and Judge C. A. Hardin, of Mercer county, candidates for Congress in the Eighth district, met here Monday in joint discussion. A large crowd heard them.

Swope's speech was taken up in discussing the democratic administration of the state under Stanley. He did not mention the League of Nations. Judge Hardin spoke of the work that had been accomplished by Woodrow Wilson, especially the signing of the peace treaty by the Germans, and predicted that the work of the commission would be indorsed by the Senate of the United States.

Eight Pictures Barred In Ohio

Fight promoters connected with an Atlantic City sporting club wired Jack Dempsey, the new heavy weight champion, guaranteeing him $30,000 for an eight-round bout with Willie Meehan Labor Day. Meehan has consented to meet Dempsey. The Willard-Dempsey fight pictures, taken at the ringside of the championship bout in Toledo Friday, were completely rejected by Maurice S. Hague, chairman of the Ohio Board of Moving Picture Censors. Though it appears almost certain the Willard-Dempsey pictures will not be shown in Ohio, it is probable that they may be seen in other States, if passed by the respective State boards.

RED CROSS NURSE TODAY'S FEATURE

Richmond's Redpath Chautauqua opened most auspiciously Monday, notwithstanding the fact it was court day and the attendance at the opening session in the afternoon was necessarily reduced. The first program was given by the Orchestral quartet, followed by Miss Ada Ward, in the evening, with her famous talk on "Getting Together," a pretty good sermon that a lot of folks are needing after the war.

The program seems to grow in interest as it progresses. Today's feature is Miss Bullard, the returned Red Cross nurse.

Tonight Dr. R. E. P. Kline, of Chicago, will lecture on the "New Competition, including in his lecture a complete review of the League of Nations. Dr. Kline is most forceful and eloquent speaker and will undoubtedly find great favor at the hands of the Richmond Chautauqua fans.

This afternoon, Miss Florence Bullard, "The Rose of No Man's Land," charmed and thrilled a large audience with her simple story of three years service in France.

The Harvesters, a company of singers and entertainers headed by Wilbur Beatty gave good satisfaction in the afternoon and will present a prelude tonight to the lecture of Dr. Kline.

Tomorrow is "Music Day" at the Chautauqua. In the afternoon the Great Lakes Quartette will be heard in the afternoon and at night they will be heard in a joint recital with Mme. Augusta Lensha, the Russian prima donna.

MISS FLORENCE C. BULLARD.

Miss Florence C. Bullard, an American Red Cross nurse, who has just returned from three years' service with the French overseas, will speak at the Redpath Chautauqua regarding her war experiences. Miss Bullard went overseas in 1916 with the American Ambulance at Neuilly, France. This hospital was then one of the most complete in France and treated especially "plastic" cases, such as making new faces for mutilated. Here Miss Bullard served for over ten months, caring for 1,000 wounded patients every day. She was transferred in February, 1918, to Vauxhall to care for the American wounded and during the spring drive was sent to Solissons. "Two and eight miles away in the woods," stated Miss Bullard, "the guns and aeroplanes of the Hun passed away at the French trenches. The order came to retreat with our 1,500 wounded on a sanitary train as fast as we could. With our equipment piled around us in the mud and debris, we finally got our wounded on board and fell back to the rear, with the shrieking breaking the glass out of the windows of our coaches." Miss Bullard was decorated by General Lanet of the French Army with the Croix de Guerre and citation for "bravery under fire in caring for the wounded at Solissons, Villars-Coteret and Chateau Thierry."

STRONG ADDRESS ON MUSIC IN SCHOOLS

Was Delivered At K. E. A. By Prof. S. S. Myers, of Eastern Kentucky State Normal

Among the prominent educators from the Eastern part of the State who took an active part on the program at the K. E. A., in Louisville last week, the Eastern State Normal School was well represented by Prof. S. S. Myers, head of the Music Department, and other members of the faculty. Prof. Myers delivered three splendid addresses before the teachers, all of which contained good material for the music teacher in rural schools, as well as the high schools of the city. His speech delivered at the second day's session is as follows:

Address delivered before the K. E. A. meeting at Louisville, June 26th by Dr. S. S. Myers.

In order to determine the educational value of any subject we must first ascertain what is meant by education, and to do this we must first determine the functions of education.

Modern education is a process by which the individual is socialized. It is a process by which the individual is prepared for social living. It is a process by which the individual is trained to live in a community. It is a process by which the individual is trained to live in a world. It is a process by which the individual is trained to live in a world of peace and harmony.

The educational ideal is not based upon the three R's, but upon the three H's. That is, Head, Heart and Hand. The world today demands an education that will bring out the best in the individual. It demands an education that will develop the powers and capabilities of the individual. It demands an education that will awaken within him a desire to use his powers and capabilities in the service of the community in which he lives.

Music In Child Life

Practically all children love to sing and, in many cases, they do so even before they learn to talk. When the child begins his public education, in the kindergarten, music directs the larger part of his activities. The play and game would be dull, indeed, without the accompanying music. Later on, the work in callisthenics, marching, and drill, is really every form of physical exercise, in up to date schools is carried on to the rhythm of played melodies. Educators everywhere recognize the value of rhythmic training for the development of physical poise in the individual. No school entertainment would be complete without music, and commencement programs are usually about one-half speaking and the other half music.

Music In The Church

From the earliest times music has been considered an essential feature of public worship. The church has always fostered and cultivated music, which has been considered the divine art. It is in the realm of the spiritual that music yields its greatest power. It stirs the soul deeper than thought can ever do. It appeals to the purest and noblest emotions of the soul and reveals to us our kinship to Divinity. The morning tides of old cathedral airs vibrating through the aisles and arches have stillied the ruffled spirit, and, sweeping aside the discordant passions of men, have borne them along the restless current until their untired voices have joined in swelling the chorus of the heaven-born anthem, "Glory to God in the Highest, on Earth Peace, Goodwill Toward Men." Music is an indispensable element in the church school. It is an inspirational factor in all lines of Christian activity.

Music In Social Life

Musical entertainments and concerts are common in every community. In fact music is made a feature in every sort of public entertainment. Picture shows, theatres, hotels and restaurants, all employ music profitably in their business. No social gathering would be considered up to the mark without music of some kind. Often in social functions in our large cities thousands of dollars are expended for music. Every municipality, abroad or at home, has its brass band and orchestras supported by the city. Public entertainments and park concerts are the people's free of charge. These things would not be done if there were no demand for them.

Music In Industrial Life

Many of the largest business corporations in the United States pay out thousands of dollars annually for the support of musical organizations. Among these are the Butler Brothers, Marshall Field, John W. Varnumaker, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Edison, and many others. They have well-organized choral societies, with paid conductors; and they have brass bands and orchestras with professional instructors and leaders and all instruments, music, and instruction is furnished the employees free of cost. One firm, the Edison Company, has over $20,000 invested in music and musical instruments.

It is not to be imagined that these great business concerns do all this through a spirit of philanthropy. They regard it purely as a paying investment. They know that their employees are interested in a choral society, the public dance hall will have less attraction for them. They know that when their men become interested in a band or orchestra, they are less likely to frequent saloons or other places where they would become incapacitated for the next day's work. They know that they must provide wholesome recreation and amusement for their employees during their leisure hour if they would keep them contented and happy; they know that it is during leisure hours that strikes are planned and discontent aroused; and that if their employees are kept contented during their leisure hours they will be less inclined to listen to professional agitators and malcontents. They know that when a man goes to work in the morning with a song in his heart he will do better work than the man or woman who begins the day with a frown. Yes, these great mercantile establishments find that the maintenance of musical organizations among their employees for the benefit and entertainment of their industrial community, as a whole, is a practical and profitable investment.

There is one large manufacturing establishment in the south in which the employees assemble each morning and spend the first half hour in chorus singing under a competent leader. The managers claim that the half hour work is more than made up by the day's work—that it develops a spirit of unity, sympathy and co-operation which results in more and better work.

HOGS SELL AT $20 HERE COURT DAY

The weather was so fine for working corn and threshing wheat, that Monday's court day crowd was perhaps the smallest seen here in some time. Trading was brisk, however, and as always stock buyers were here from a dozen counties. There were over 1200 cattle at the two stock yards, and they sold up to 11 cents a pound and 150 hogs at an average around 18 cents, while James Crutcher's yards report about 200 hogs sold up to $20 a hundred. Hog buyers are all jubilant and several have cleaned up on the rapid rise in porkers recently. Trading in horses and mules was rather dull considering the big market for horseflesh which is usually seen here. At the East End yards about 75 head of horses and mules from $125 to $200 a head. At Crutcher's yards 300 sheep sold at $10 a head. There were a number of mule buyers down town and over $200 were paid for the best looking animals.

Farmers report crops all doing well. Wheat promises to make a first class crop, notwithstanding the fact that a number of growers had a lot blown down during the severe storms a few weeks back. Much of this has been salvaged, and the crop will be good. Tobacco is coming on in good shape, and corn is looking well.

Wharton Family Reunion

Several from Madison attended the annual reunion of the Wharton family Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Wharton, in Lexington, with representatives present from three States. Fifteen members of the family enjoyed the feast of old ham, chicken, etc., as well as the music and singing which followed in the afternoon. A feature of the musical program, in which practically every member of the family participated, was the playing and singing of old-time melodies. Patriotic songs and time airs also had a part. Silent prayers were offered for the guidance of each person so that the final great reunion may be held where the only absent member of the family has gone to prepare the way. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Wharton, Mrs. O. W. Robinson and daughter, Virginia Lee, of Portsmouth, O., Mrs. J. V. Baumstark and daughter, son Robert, of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Wharton and son, Marion James, of Huntington, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stafford, of Jessamine county; Misses Nannie, Elizabeth and Mildred Wharton, at home.

munty how much greater may be its results in the life of the school where the chief aim is preparation for citizenship.

Music In Commercial Life

In order that we may gain something of an idea of the commercial value of music as compared with other forms of industry, let me quote a few statistics from Appleton's Year-book and one or two music-trades journals, that have carefully investigated the matter.

|---------------------------------------|---------------|
| Church music | $5,000,000 |
| Brass Bands | $5,000,000 |
| Theatre Music | $5,000,000 |
| Concerts | $5,000,000 |
| Operas | $5,000,000 |
| Pianos | $125,000 |
| Gramophones | $10,000,000 |
| Sheet music and music books | $10,000,000 |
| Phonographs | $5,000,000 |
| Music Journals | $5,000,000 |
| Instruction in music | $220,000,000 |
| Making a grand total of $620,000,000 | |
| In the meantime, we paid out for: | |
| Postal and package | $27,834,565 |
| Automobiles | $32,831,000 |
| Roots and Shoes | $50,000,000 |
| Woolen Goods | $71,300,333 |
| Cotton Goods | $46,248,833 |
| Music in all forms | $62,000,000 |

Inasmuch as music is foremost in the child's life, in his social life, in his life in his commercial life, should it not be given a place of first rank in the educational life of the child? If education is a preparation for life, a socializing process, music can certainly lay claim to the highest educational value. No other study so fully meets the requirements of the new educational ideal. To be without a perception of the finer traits of humanity; to be without the instinct which gives the natural world communication with the spiritual; to be a language of delightful sensations far more eloquent than words—a language beginning where speech leaves off and leading on into the realm of the ideal; to be blended into colors, moulded into sculpture and frozen into architecture. It has a voice for every age and a capacity for every degree of taste and intelligence. It is a language that is heard in its mother's arms. It is a language that is heard in the spirit of patriotism. It is a language that is heard in the heart of the warrior. It is a language that is heard in the heart of the martyr. It is a language that is heard in the heart of the hero. It is a language that is heard in the heart of the saint. It is a language that is heard in the heart of the angel. It is a language that is heard in the heart of the God.

Transport George Washington Arrives Safely—After Speech Wilson Goes to Capital

(By Associated Press)
New York, July 8.—Escorted by a fleet of warships, the steamer George Washington bringing the President home from France, passed quarantine and moved on to New York harbor at 1:30 p. m. today. As the transport passed Fort Hancock guns boomed the Presidential salute which was echoed 10 minutes later by Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth. President and Mrs. Wilson stood on the bridge. Returning soldiers lined the rails. The battleship Pennsylvania bearing Secretaries Daniels, Baker, Lane, Glass and Wilson led the way followed by the Oklahoma.

New York, July 8.—With a naval dirigible hovering over her, the George Washington came in sight of the Jersey highlands at 11:40 a. m. Samuel Gompers headed a delegation of 25 Central and South American labor leaders who went down the bay on a ferry to aid in welcoming President Wilson. Another ferry boat carried a thousand residents of Staten Island and many relatives and friends of soldiers returning on the George Washington. All the vessels of the welcoming fleet were gaily decorated. The streets Wilson will pass along en route to Carnegie Hall are also decorated and upwards of 3,000 policemen lined the route.

The dreadnought Pennsylvania carried Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, Secretary Daniels and wife, and other cabinet members and a number of Senators and Representatives to meet Wilson.

Immediately after the welcoming exercises at Carnegie Hall, will take a special train for Washington.

Another Auto Goes Over Bank

Tuesday afternoon Mr. W. N. Brown had a very narrow escape from serious injury or death. With Mr. Brown he was returning from Lancaster and when their car reached the point in the road near the bridge where Revs. Clyde Shelton, of Lexington Wm Eldridge of Lexington and Mr. Brown stopped to look about the place, and show the various points to his wife when he attempted to start the machine he had difficulty getting it off up the hill, and thought if he would back a little he could make the grade more readily. Mrs. Brown got out to direct her husband in the lay of the road, and in the effort to get the machine going he backed up the same embankment over which the car of the two ministers had been hurled. The machine landed on the rear part and the engine popped straight up, but by some miracle Mr. Brown escaped without injury. They secured another car, came on to Harrodsburg, Kentucky and the next morning Mr. Brown sent a truck and tackle to the spot and had the machine back to the road in bringing it home. KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful.

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night. I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui.

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time. I was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. I decided I would try Cardui. By time I had taken the entire bottle I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.

I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well. If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise Cardui for their present good health. Give it a trial.

Mexican Lawlessness Must Cease

Our Mexican troubles continue. Not only must we, apparently fortify our border and keep tens of thousands of members of all branches of our military service constantly on guard at enormous cost, but even these measures do not prevent outrages against those of our citizens who are present in Mexico is necessary. In this connection the State Department has announced that John W. Correll, an American citizen, while defending his wife from attack by a rebel force, was brutally murdered a few days ago. It also appears that this is but one of a number of atrocities reported from the Tampico region since the receipt of repeated and emphatic assurance from General Candido Aguilar son-in-law of President Carranza, and other officials of the Carranza regime, that the lives and properties of foreigners would be safeguarded in the Mexico. Of course we are again informed that the Mexican representatives of the State Department "have made urgent and immediate representations to the Mexican authorities etc but we have been hearing of similar atrocities and similar "representations" for many years now from administrations of both political faiths and it is high time that some more vigorous and effective action be taken. There is no longer any necessity for "watchful waiting." Americans should be as safe in Mexico as they are in Brazil or any other Central or South American country; and if the Mexican Government can not or will not provide such safety, the American Government must.

MANY BOLSHEVIKI HAVE DESERTED THEIR PARTY

(Correspondence Associated Press)

(Archangel, July 4)—The khaki uniforms of the British type that have been adopted by the North Russian government for its soldiers have now with only a few exceptions, replaced the dozen or more varieties of fancy military dress that were common in the early days of the fighting against the Bolsheviks on this front last September.

This little matter of standardizing the uniform typifies the efforts that have been made to organize a Russian army in the North. Only three units now are out of khaki—the French foreign Legion, Russians who wear the French light blue and the Polish legion, also wearing light blue and with strange four-cornered peaked caps.

Even the Cossack troops have had to give up their gaudy colors and flaming-striped trousers for the khaki. The Slavo-Britannic legion officers wear the British uniforms, "pips" and all, as grade markings, but the other Russian officers wear the old Russian shoulder stripes on British cut coats with the Sam Brown belt.

A startling contrast to the well-uniformed government troops are the Bolshevik prisoners who are brought in from time to time, to Archangel. Most of them are without any uniform at all, wearing their peasant clothes, while some have queer mixtures of the dress of half the nations of the world.

Many former Bolshevik prisoners have changed this garb, and also their politics, for the khaki, and now are fighting against the Bolsheviks. One entire battalion of former Bolshevik prisoners, offered by an English colonel, and known as "Dyer's Battalion," has done excellent work.

Hundreds of boys are in khaki in Archangel. Recently Governor General Miller announced that an "educational battalion" of boys from the ages of 12 to 18 years, was to be formed to include boys guilty of actions deserving imprisonment, ramblers and houseless boys, and boys whose parents would like to have them brought up in an atmosphere of military discipline.

In honor of General Edmund Ironside, the British commander-in-chief, this battalion will be known as "General Ironside's Educational Battalion for Children," and will be dressed and fed at the expense of the British government.

WHY GRINSTEAD

SPELLER LOST OUT

Dispatches from Frankfort say that failure of the Transylvania Printing Company of Lexington to conform to a section of the school law in offering its proposal to the State Text Book Commission on Prof. Wren Grinstead's speller, probably is responsible for the book not being adopted. The minutes of the meeting of the commission show that the speller when first offered was adopted by the vote of 7 to 5. J. H. Adams, of Minerva, made the motion for the adoption of the Grinstead speller which was seconded by Mrs. Nannie G. Faulconer, of Lexington. The members of the commission voting in favor of the adoption were Superintendent of Public Instruction V. O. Gilbert, Mrs. Nannie G. Faulconer, Prof. Paul Anderson, J. H. Adams, H. L. Smith, O. H. Harris, and E. C. McDougle. Those voting against the adoption were Governor. James D. Black, Homer W. Nichols, O. E. Baird, Orville H. Stivers and J. L. Alexander.

After it was found that the proposal of the Transylvania Printing Company did not conform to the law with regard to furnishing of books at the same or lower price and did not follow the law with regard to the oath not to control prices, the vote adopting the speller was expunged from the minutes of the meeting. The motion to expunge from the record the proceedings of the adopting the speller was expunged from minutes of the meeting. The commission voted in favor of expunging with exception of Mrs. Faulconer, Harris and Prof. Anderson.

When the question of the adoption of a speller was gone into the second time, the Grinstead speller was offered by Professor Anderson and the motion seconded by Mrs. Faulconer, Prof. Anderson, Mrs. Faulconer, Harris and McDougle voted for the adoption of the Grinstead speller and Governor Black, Superintendent Gilbert, Nichols, Baird, Smith, Stivers, Adams and Alexander voted for Mastery of Woods, the speller of the Iroquois Publishing Company which was adopted.

Either farm a DANDY home, in an ideal location.

No other farms in this neighborhood for sale. They just won't price.

162 Acre Tract will be sold in three tracts: 85 acres with most improvements, 50 acres with tenant house and tobacco barn, 27 acres, no improvements. Purchaser of any tract will have the chance to buy either one or both of other tracts, each tract with broad frontage on pike.

The improvements consist of a new 5 room bungalow, 2 porches, good cistern, 4 acre tobacco barn, 40 acres in corn, 4 acres in tobacco, 20 acres in meadow, balance in grass. Splendid frontage on Mt. The 162 acres has 40 acres in corn, 10 acres in tobacco, 112 acres in grass. Both farms are well watered. Curtis farm has a fine orchard, beautiful yard with large shade trees right on the pike.

The farms are a good "buy" for two families wanting to locate in same neighborhood close to splendid graded school and with other advantages. These farms will be sold for the High Dollar.

I "turn down" auction sale propositions every few days. I only contract for those I know will appeal to the buyers, therefore, I always sell what I offer. The purchaser gets the benefit of my judgment as to values. Attend my sales and see how they are conducted. We want to show you the land before day of sale. Get in touch with me. Possession of both farms on January 1, 1920. Terms easy. Dinner on the grounds.

GOOD WORK AT COLLEGE HILL S. S. CONVENTION

College Hill, July 8. The Annual Sunday School Convention was held at College Hill July 4th. There was a large crowd of people attended. A splendid program was rendered. The exercises and reports of the various Sunday Schools represented were all good. A beautiful Cornet Solo; "Oh Perfect Day", was rendered by Mr. Orval Coomer, of the Speedwell Sunday School. A quartet from the Flat Woods Sunday School composed of Misses Ida Blanton, Cornelia Wilson and Messrs. Ben Wilson and Price Bush was very much enjoyed. Reading by Miss Mary Boggs and Miss Carrie Thomas was also good. Mr. Will S. Norris, of Cincinnati, was present and gave a splendid talk on Sunday School work, which was very encouraging. Mr. Norris is an enthusiastic Sunday School worker. He has been engaged in Sunday School work in Cincinnati for the past 30 years. He has helped to build four Mission churches in that city, one of which bears his name, the Norris Memorial church. Mr. Norris gives all the credit of his religious career to his early christian training in the College Hill Sunday schools. He is the son of Mr. W. K.
